I am really enthusiastic about the LGBC boundary review which has in general kept communities together and used natural boundaries where appropriate. I live in Redhill East (which was proposed as Redhill Town). I feel that Redhill town should remain belonging to both communities of Redhill East and Redhill West, as such the boundary should still run through the middle of the town centre (as proposed by the RBBC). The removal of the residences south of the railway line to Earlswood ward is sensible. The removal of Garlands Road and Grovehill etc to the west is also a sensible change. On the whole the LGBC proposed changes to RHE, with the RBBC guide to maintaining the Redhill East name are good for the town.
