

What happens next?

We have now completed our review of Reigate and Banstead Borough Council.

The recommendations must now be approved by Parliament. A draft order - the legal document which brings into force our recommendations - will be laid in Parliament.

Subject to parliamentary scrutiny, the new electoral arrangements will come into force at the local elections in May 2019.

Our recommendations:

The table lists all the wards we are proposing as part of our final recommendations along with the number of voters in each ward. The table also shows the electoral variances for each of the proposed ward, which tells you how we have delivered electoral equality. Finally, the table includes electorate projections for 2023, so you can see the impact of the recommendations for the future.

Who we are:

- The Local Government Boundary Commission for England is an independent body set up by Parliament.
- We are not part of government or any political party.
- We are accountable to Parliament through a committee of MPs chaired by the Speaker of the House of Commons.
- Our main role is to carry out electoral reviews of local authorities throughout England.

Why Reigate and Banstead Borough Council?

- Reigate and Banstead currently has high levels of electoral inequality: some councillors represent many more - or many fewer - voters than others.
- Therefore the value of your vote, in Reigate and Banstead council elections, varies depending on where you live in Reigate and Banstead.
- We are seeking to improve levels of electoral equality for local voters.

Electoral review:

- An electoral review examines and proposes new electoral arrangements for a local authority, including:
- The total number of councillors representing the council's voters ('council size').
 - The names, number and boundaries of wards or electoral divisions.
 - The number of councillors for each ward or division.

Our proposals:

- Reigate and Banstead Borough Council currently has 51 councillors. Based on the evidence we received, we recommend that 45 councillors should serve the borough in the future.
- We believe our final recommendations meet our statutory criteria to:
 - (1) Deliver electoral equality for voters.
 - (2) Reflect community interests and identities.
 - (3) Promote effective and convenient local government.

Summary of our recommendations

We have considered all the submissions we received during our consultation on our draft recommendations.

The final recommendations propose that Reigate and Banstead Borough Council should have 45 councillors. This is 6 fewer than the current number of councillors.

Those councillors should represent 15 three-councillor wards, 4 fewer wards than there are now

The boundaries of Reigate and Banstead Borough wards should change, none should stay the same. Names of wards should also be changed.

There have been substantial changes to our original proposals, particularly at Kingswood, Lower Kingswood and Woodmansterne. For example, we have combined parts of Kingswood north and south of the railway line into one ward, and recommended boundaries for Woodmansterne, as suggested to us by residents' associations.

In the parish of Horley, we have made a change to our proposals for Benhams Drive by including it in our Horley West & Sidlow ward.

An outline of the proposals is shown in the map to the right. A detailed report on the recommendations and interactive mapping is available on our website at: www.lgbce.org.uk.
