The following comment is made on an individual basis and does not constitute the view of South Norfolk District Council or Long Stratton District Council. The comment below is reference to Long Stratton Ward. The number of residents in the Long Stratton Ward is set to significantly increase over the next 20 years, with an already determined 1800 houses to be built within the Long Stratton Area Action plan boundary. It should also be noted that a progressive local Neighbourhood plan has just got underway by Long Stratton Parish council that covers the same area as the Long Stratton Area action boundary line. As a current incumbent of the role of district councillor I can clearly see the future need for a 3rd ward member at district level in this currently dual member ward. I would however suggest a clearly defined geographical break down between the 3 incumbents on a per head basis rather than a purely geographical one to make sure the work load is evenly spread amongst all 3. This point should be taken into account even if the overall geographical area of the Long Stratton Ward remains the same, also if a third ward member is not found to be required.
