"I support the reduction in size to 50, and believe there would be no negative impact on services.

I hope the Commission is able to deal with one specific problem within South Ribble, namely that of Buckshaw Village. This substantial, and growing, population centre (complete with a retirement village, family homes and a railway station), is currently split between two councils, namely Chorley and South Ribble.

There are cases of people paying council tax to Chorley whilst having bins collected by South Ribble. These and other anomalies will persist until the authority boundary is confirmed. "
