PROPOSALS FOR THE FUTURE ELECTORAL ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE COUNTY OF CLEVELAND

1. The last Order under Section 51 of the Local Government Act 1972 in relation to electoral arrangements for districts in the County of Cleveland was made on 15 July 1976. As required by Section 63 and Schedule 9 of the Act, we have now reviewed the electoral arrangements for that county, using the procedures set out in our Report No. 6.

2. We informed the Cleveland County Council in a consultation letter dated 1 October 1976 that we proposed to conduct the review and sent copies of the letter to the borough councils, parish councils and parish meetings in the county, to the Members of Parliament representing the constituencies concerned, to the headquarters of the main political parties and to the editors both of local newspapers circulating in the county and of the local government press. Notices in the local press announced the start of the review and invited comments from members of the public and from interested bodies. Our letter invited the County Council to submit a scheme providing for the 65 electoral divisions which the Commission considered adequate for a county of Cleveland's size.

3. On 17 February 1977, the County Council submitted to us a draft scheme in which they suggested 91 electoral divisions for the county, each returning one member in accordance with Section 6(2)(a) of the Act. The Commission considered this to be too large a council for Cleveland having regard to its population and other considerations and invited the County Council's comments on two schemes - one for 65 members, the other for 77 - which the Commission themselves had prepared as a possible compromise. The County Council did not respond to the invitation and eventually a meeting between them and the Commission was held on 24 April 1980.

4. As a result of the exchange of views there, the Commission undertook - without commitment - to examine further a scheme for 91 members and the County Council agreed to consider submitting a revised scheme for that size which would improve on the standard of representation in the original draft scheme. The Commission also asked to see the best possible scheme for about 77 members that the County Council were able to devise. After further correspondence, the County Council submitted a revised draft scheme for 91 members on 26 August 1982; on 15 February 1983, they submitted a 76 member scheme although it was September 1983 before all the material needed to enable the Commission to consider both schemes adequately became available.

5. We considered the two schemes together with the arguments advanced by the County Council. In doing so, we again considered the question of the size of council. After careful consideration, we decided that a County Council of 77 would be the appropriate size and we decided to publish draft proposals accordingly. On 30 April 1984, we issued draft proposals, incorporating the 76 member scheme submitted by the County Council with the addition of an extra division in Hartlepool Borough, which we sent to all those who had received our consultation letter. Notices were inserted in the local press announcing that the draft proposals had been issued and could be inspected at the County Council's offices. Our draft proposals letter pointed out that the Commission's practice has always been to identify divisions by name rather than by numbers. In the absence of any names being submitted by the County Council we proposed a set of division names which were taken from the main features of the available maps of the area. We recognised that these might not be the most suitable for the areas which they were identifying. We stated in our draft proposals letter that we would consider alternative names that may, in the light of local knowledge, seem more appropriate.

6. We received comments in response to our draft proposals from Cleveland County Council, all four borough councils, two parish councils, eleven political party organisations, one county councillor, two residents' associations and one individual. A full list of those who wrote to us is given at Appendix 1 to this report.

7. The County Council accepted our draft proposals. The other comments we received can be summarised as follows:-

(a) Hartlepool Borough

Hartlepool Borough Council had no objection to the pattern of divisions proposed for their area but requested the change of six division names. The Hartlepool Conservative Association considered that a different three-way partition of the Rossmere borough ward would better meet the area's social compatibility and give a more even standard of representation; they also commented on the names proposed for the divisions within their constituency. The Hart Ward Members Branch of the Labour Party preferred to see the Hart ward in Brus electoral division than in that of Hart, Elwick and Greatham. They disputed the assumption that Hart ward forms part of the rural hinterland of Hartlepool and criticised the proposed Hart, Elwick and Greatham division as being inoperably large;

(b) Langbaurgh Borough

Langbaurgh Borough Council accepted the Commission's draft proposal pattern of divisions but suggested the alteration of six division names. Loftus Town Council considered that Skinningrove borough ward should have been placed in their Loftus electoral division rather than in the Brotton and Skinningrove division; a view which was shared by the Loftus Labour Party. A County Councillor objected to part of Guisborough Town being placed in Lingdale Electoral Divisions and not Guisborough - as did the Skelton and Lockwood Labour Party. The suggestion of an alternative name for the Lowfields division came from the South Bank Labour Party;

(c) Middlesbrough Borough

Middlesbrough Borough Council's only suggestion was that one of the proposed divisions should be re-named. Langbaurgh Conservative Association considered that the Marton and Nunthorpe divisions should be renamed. The South Middlesbrough Liberal Group, writing on Langbaugh Liberal Association headed paper, fully supported the representations made by an individual that four divisions should be altered. The review of Cleveland's electoral arrangements was welcomed by the Middlesbrough Constituency Liberal Association who supported the draft proposals and forwarded a list of what they considered to be apt division names. The Stockton on Tees South Constituency Liberal Association, who regretted the rejection of a 91 member council for Cleveland, commented on the draft proposals for Middlesbrough and Stockton on Tees. In respect of Middlesbrough, they suggested the alteration of the draft proposal divisions of Brookfield and Kader. The Stainton and Thornton Residents' Association considered that the Hemlington Borough ward, which had been placed in Tollesby division, should form its own electoral division whilst the remainder of Tollesby would be incorporated in the Coulby Newham division. The Nunthorpe Residents' Association advocated a reduction in the size of the proposed Rye Hill division to take account of anticipated housing development in the Newham area.

(d) Stockton on Tees Borough

Whilst expressing regret that the draft proposals had found necessary the partition of eight of their polling districts, Stockton on Tees Borough Council formally objected to only two of those splittings, that of polling district VA between the Mandale Beck and Teesdale Park divisions and that of polling district LA between the Rudyard and Station divisions. In addition to suggesting the concentration of each polling division within one division, they suggested the alteration of 11 proposed division names. The Parkfield branch of the Stockton South Constituency Labour Party considered that the Parkfield borough ward (which forms Parkfield electoral division) was sufficiently large to be represented by two councillors. The suggestions of the Stockton on Tees South Constituency Liberal Association for Middlesbrough have already been mentioned; in respect of Stockton on Tees, they criticised the size of the proposed Preston, Whitton and Wolviston division, and in addition suggested a complete set of division names. The Stockton North branch of the Social Democratic Party criticised the proposed Preston, Whitton and Wolviston division for its size and for cutting across parliamentary constituency boundaries; they also suggested a name change for the Rudyard division. Stillington and Whitton Parish Council suggested an alternative name for the Preston, Whitton and Wolviston division;

(e) Division Names

Cleveland County Council expressed no views upon the division names contained in our draft proposals letter, considering that their borough councils, with their local knowledge, were the best judges of the matter. The request for more apt division names produced, in addition to borough council comments, suggestions from nine other sources ranging from a full set of names for one borough to the suggestion of a change in one division.

8. In re-assessing our draft proposals we have taken account of all the comments we have received and we have come to the following conclusions:

(a) Hartlepool Borough

Both in respect of this and of other boroughs, we have considered very carefully the view that local ties ought to take precedence over the need to create divisions with electorates of approximately equal size and that, therefore, the divisions should be re-drawn as suggested in the correspondence which we received. We concluded however, that as there would be more general improvement in electoral balances if we were to adopt the Hartlepool Conservative Association's suggested amendment we should adhere to our draft proposals which the County Council and Borough Council had supported.

(b) Langbaurgh Borough

We are unable to support the transfer of Skinningrove borough ward to the Loftus electoral division, which would produce extreme differences in electorate size between divisions. As the splitting of Guisborough town between electoral divisions matched the town's partition between borough wards, we did not consider this a hardship - as the County Councillor's suggestions produced an inferior standard of representation, we decided not to adopt them.

(c) Middlesbrough Borough

We have considered the alternative divisions put forward but see no reason to change our draft proposals. Similarly, we considered that any marginal improvement in electoral equality which Stockton on Tees South Constituency Liberal Association's suggestion might produce is insufficient to warrant replacing draft proposal arrangements which had produced no other adverse comment. The creation of a single electoral division conforming to the Hemlington borough ward would produce extreme differences in electorate size between divisions.

(d) Stockton on Tees Borough

We considered that the slight improvement in electoral balance which Stockton on Tees Borough Council's suggested amendment would produce is insufficient to warrant replacing draft proposal arrangements which had produced no other adverse comment. We have concluded that, short of a complete re-drawing of the electoral divisions proposed for the borough, there is no way that we can reduce the size of the Preston, Whitton and Wolviston division and still produce an even standard of representation in the borough. Such re-drawing did not seem justified by the information before us whilst the alternative name suggested for it was more cumbersome than the original.

(e) Division Names

We agreed with the County Council's view that the Borough Councils were best able to comment upon the aptness of division names; we have only altered the draft proposal names where alternatives were suggested by the Borough Councils.

9. We accordingly confirm our draft proposals as our final proposals for all boroughs in the county, subject to the adoption of twenty four division names suggested by the four borough councils.

10. Details of the final proposals are set out in Schedules 1 and 2 to this report and on the attached map. Schedule 1 gives the names of the electoral divisions. A detailed description of the boundaries of the proposed electoral divisions, as defined on the map, is set ou in Schedule 2.

PUBLICATION

11. In accordance with Section 60(5)(b) of the Local Government Act 1972, a copy of the report and a copy of the map are being sent to the Cleveland County Council and will be available for inspection at the Council's main offices. Copies of this report (without the map) are being sent to those who received the consultation letter and to those who made comments.
