Helping you to have your say:

We are now consulting local people on a new pattern of electoral divisions for Cambridgeshire. The Commission has an open mind about its final recommendations and will consider every piece of evidence we receive from local groups and people. Every representation will be considered, regardless of whom it is from or whether it relates to the whole county or just a part of it.

If you agree with our recommendations, please let us know. If you don’t think our recommendations are right for Cambridgeshire, we want to hear alternative proposals for a different pattern of divisions.

The Commission aims to propose a pattern of electoral divisions for Cambridgeshire which delivers:

- Electoral equality: each councillor represents a similar number of voters.
- Community identity: reflects the identity and interests of local communities.
- Effective and convenient local government: helping your council discharge its responsibilities effectively.

A good pattern of divisions should:

- Provide good electoral equality, with each councillor representing, as closely as possible, the same number of voters.
- Reflect community interests and identities and include evidence of community link.
- Be based on strong, easily identifiable boundaries.
- Help the council deliver effective and convenient local government.

Electoral equality:

- Does your proposal mean that councillors would represent roughly the same number of voters as elsewhere in the council area?

Community identity:

- Transport links: are there good links across your proposed division? Is there any form of public transport?
- Community groups: is there a parish council, residents association or another group that represents the area?
- Facilities: does your pattern of divisions reflect where local people go for shops, medical services, leisure facilities etc?
- Interests: what issues bind the community together or separate it from other parts of your area?
- Identifiable boundaries: are there natural or constructed features which make strong boundaries for your proposals?

Effective local government:

- Are any of the proposed divisions too large or small to be represented effectively?
- Are the proposed names of the electoral divisions appropriate?

Useful tips:

- Our website has a special consultation area where you can explore the maps and draw your own proposed boundaries. You can find it at www.consultation.lgbce.org.uk.
- We publish all submissions we receive on our website so you can follow what other people and organisations have told us. Go to: www.lgbce.org.uk

Who we are

The Local Government Boundary Commission for England is an independent body set up by Parliament. We are not part of government or any political party. We are accountable to Parliament through a committee of MPs chaired by the Speaker of the House of Commons.

Our main role is to carry out electoral reviews of local authorities throughout England.

Electoral review

An electoral review examines and proposes new electoral arrangements for a local authority. A local authority’s electoral arrangements are:

- The total number of councillors representing the council’s voters (‘council size’).
- The names, number and boundaries of wards or electoral divisions.
- The number of councillors representing each ward or division.

Why Cambridgeshire?

We are conducting an electoral review of Cambridgeshire County Council to deliver improved levels of electoral equality for local voters.

Cambridgeshire currently has high levels of electoral inequality where some county councillors represent many more - or many fewer - voters than others. This means that the value of your vote - in county council elections - varies depending on where you live in Cambridgeshire.

Our proposals

Cambridgeshire County Council currently has 69 councillors. We propose that the council should have 61 councillors in future. The Commission believes that a council size of 61 members will ensure the council can discharge its roles and responsibilities effectively and provides for a division pattern that meets our statutory criteria.

Electoral arrangements

Our draft recommendations propose that Cambridgeshire’s 61 councillors should represent 53 single-member divisions and four two-member divisions across the county.

Overview of draft recommendations for Cambridgeshire County Council

Summary of our recommendations

Before drawing up the draft recommendations the Commission carried out a public consultation inviting proposals for a new pattern of divisions for 63 councillors.

We subsequently reduced council size by a further two to provide for a better allocation of councillors across the county. We have considered all of the submissions we received during that phase of consultation.

Our draft recommendations propose that Cambridgeshire’s 61 county councillors should represent 53 single-member divisions and four two-member divisions across the county.

The Commission believes the draft recommendations meet its obligations – which are set in law to:

- Deliver electoral equality for voters.
- Reflect local community interests and identities.
- Promote effective and convenient local government.

The recommendations mean that all five districts in Cambridgeshire will have fewer councillors than under the current arrangements.

These recommendations have no direct impact on the electoral arrangements of Cambridgeshire’s district councils.

We are proposing changes to the parish electoral arrangements in Ely, Fen Ditton, Huntingdon, March, St Neots, St Ives, Whittlesey and Wisbech St Mary parishes.
