1.Introduction

Supporting, promoting & celebrating

OffWestEnd exists to support, promote and celebrate the full spectrum of Off West End theatres and to draw the general public into the heady darkness and dangerous passion of these little powerhouses perched above a pub, tucked under a railway bridge, packed into a disused warehouse, built around a butcher's shop or suspended above a shopping centre.

Taking risks, supporting new work, & a platform for disadvantaged

OffWestEnd theatres play a vital role in London and in society as a whole - taking risks to push the boundaries of live performance as well as entertaining the intellect and stretching the imagination. OffWestEnd theatre is a breeding ground for new writers, for innovation and for imaginative community and outreach programmes. In addition, it is at the forefront of enabling disadvantaged groups — be they female, black & south Asian, disabled, gay, lesbian or transgender — to have a voice. All of this feeds into our culture, reinventing and reinvigorating us.

OffWestEnd – "all theatre starts here" Our strapline is "all theatre starts here" and there are many West End shows that have transferred from OffWestEnd theatres. Many famous names have launched their careers at OffWestEnd venues, ranging from Victoria Wood & Julie Walters at the Bush Theatre, to Phoebe Waller-Bridge and "Fleabag" which was first seen at the Soho Theatre.

Theatre is in crisis

Theatre is in crisis. Theatres have been closed since March and are likely to remain closed until at least late 2020. When they do re-open, it is likely to be within a much constrained environment: for example, social distancing is likely to lead to fewer available seats and there will be new rules for operating bars and catering. All these factors will mean significantly reduced income.

Theatres need financial assistance to re-open

Theatre will need help to re-open – and this includes all theatre, large and small, across the whole of the UK. This report focuses on OffWestEnd theatre – over 100 independent, alternative and fringe venues across London.

West End theatre has a persuasive economic case for support It is understandable that many in government see "theatre" as large scale West End theatres, drawing in thousands of visitors to London who not only purchase tickets but who also stimulate the economy by spending money on hotels, restaurants and bars. Given their economic impact, the rationale for providing "bailout" funds to these theatres is very persuasive — and we would support their campaign for financial assistance at this time.

OffWestEnd theatres need support as well But theatre is an ecosystem and the smaller, independent fringe theatres across London play a huge role in helping to nurture and sustain theatre as a whole. OffWestEnd theatre will need support post lockdown – alongside other theatres across the UK – and this report analyses the needs and identifies the amount required. We hope that government and other bodies will carefully consider the arguments made in this report – and in other documents submitted by organisations such as UK Theatre – and respond positively in order to enable the theatre sector to survive the impact of Covid-19.

Government support must move beyond airlines and other "major players" Finally, we note the comments expressed by Charlotte Bence from Equity UK that it would be invidious to provide £600m in government bailout funds to each of Easyjet and Ryanair (who had profits in 2019 of £349m and £880m respectively) and to provide nothing to the theatre industry. We share this view.

2.The Numbers

OffWestEnd venues are currently closed with limited (if any) part-time staffing. Because of this, it has been impossible to gather sufficient detailed figures from every venue.

This report therefore uses estimates and averages based on the data we do have. The following schedule explains how we have used this data to prepare income estimates.

The final row is an estimate of income lost in the 6 months following theatre closures in late March 2020.

Area	Figure	Description
Venues	100	There are 126 venues on the OffWestEnd database (see Appendix 2). It is estimated that 20% of these will not survive lockdown or will not need assistance, so this leaves 101 venues – let's say 100.
Spaces	110	Approximately 10% of OffWestEnd venues have 2 performance spaces , meaning a total of 110 spaces.
Average Capacity	120	Appendix 2 includes capacity figures for 50 of our venues, of which 12 have 2 spaces. The average of these is 130 per space. We have then added an estimated average of 110 for the other 76 venues, and then calculated an overall average of 120 per space.
Average Ticket Price	£16	The data we have from venues on average ticket prices would indicate that £16 is a reasonable figure to use as an average ticket price across all venues & spaces.
Maximum income per performance	£1,920	Multiplying the above two rows, i.e. capacity and ticket price.
Performances per week	5	This figure is based on the facts that many venues present 6-7 performances per week including matinees, while others will present only 3-4.
Weeks of the year	47	Many venues do not schedule performances in August and some do not in the week between Christmas and New Year
Total potential annual income	£49,632,000	Multiplying the figures from the relevant 5 rows above (i.e. the ones in the pale yellow).
Average potential annual income per space	£451,200	Dividing the total potential income by the 110 spaces.
%age of tickets sold	60%	This is an estimate based on general feedback from venues.
Seats actually sold per space	72	Multiplying 120 seats per space by 60%.
Actual income per performance	£1,152	Multiplying 72 (row above) by £16 (average ticket price)
Total actual annual income	£29,779,200	Multiplying the total potential income by the percentage of tickets sold.
Average actual annual income per space	£270,720	Dividing the total actual annual income by the 110 spaces
Income lost from mid- March to mid-Sept 2020	£13,305,600	This is 21/47 of the annual income, as this 6 month period represents 21 weeks of potential performances (it excludes 5 weeks for August when there would have been fewer performances).

3. The Numbers Post Lockdown

There are three key factors post lockdown – confirmed in the parallel Audience Survey also undertaken by OffWestEnd in May 2020 (this can be downloaded from www.offwestend.com/covid19surveys):

- That audiences may be less willing to return, at least in the short term it is estimated that an average of 30% of previous attendees may be unwilling to return in at least the first 6 months post lockdown this would mean just 50 attendees per performance (70% of 72 from above table).
- That social distancing and other rules may mean that venues are only able to sell a limited number of seats in their spaces:
 - o If there was a 2m (or even a 1.5m) social distancing rule, then venues could only sell a maximum of 1 in 3 of their seats i.e. 33% of their capacity.
 - o If there was a 1m social distancing rule, then venues could only sell a maximum of 1 in 2 of their seats i.e. 50% of their capacity.
- That venues may feel they need to sell discounted tickets in order to encourage audiences to return it is estimated that a discount of around 25% may be necessary.

The following schedule outlines the implications of these factors:

Area	If capacity was 1 in 3	If capacity was 1 in 2	Description
Capacity	40	60	Average capacity of 120 divided by 3 or 2
Likely attendees	50	50	70% of 72 seats sold (from table in section 2 above)
Actual tickets sold	40	50	For the "1 in 3" scenario, although 59 people may want to attend, the capacity is only 40
Discounted ticket price	£12	£12	75% of the £16 average as per the above table
Income per performance	£480	£600	Multiplying the number of actual tickets sold by the discounted ticket price
Income per annum per space	£112,800	£141,000	Multiplying income per performance by 5 performances per week for 47 weeks
Income per annum across all spaces	£12,408,000	£15,510,000	Multiplying above figure by 110 spaces
Previous annual income per space	£29,779,200	£29,779,200	From table in section 2 above
Annual difference	£17,371,200	£14,269,200	The difference between the two rows above
Difference for 6 months	£9,240,000	£7,590,000	This is 25/46 of the above figure as the first 6 months post lockdown will most likely include the Christmas/NY break but not the summer break in August

Therefore the reduction in income for the 6 months post lockdown is between £7.6m and £9.2m. Given the estimates used in these calculations, additional research would be helpful in clarifying the exact amount required, but it is likely this will be in the region of £7-10m.

£9m to save 100 theatres

There are many ways in which such funds could be allocated, but whatever mechanism is chosen should be as simple as possible, perhaps based upon a theatre's 2019 figures, using a combination of capacity, number of performances and average ticket price.

Appendix 1 – Comparison with SIT Report

SIT (the Society of Independent Theatres) is the industry association for all types of theatrical venues under 300 seats. More information is available at www.sitgb.org.

SIT has produced its own report based on a survey of 54 of their theatre venue members (44 in London, 10 outside). Some London theatres are members of SIT and also fall under the OffWestEnd umbrella.

The following table shows some of the OffWestEnd data from the tables above, compared to the SIT data. In all cases, the OffWestEnd figures are lower than those from the SIT report, which confirms that the estimated figures used in this report for the OffWestEnd sector are reasonable and not exaggerated.

In the following table, the final 2 columns are the capacity of the main space (Cap1) and any second space (Cap2). Figures in blue are actuals and those in green are an estimated average (see table in section 2 above). Figures in italics are an average for spaces where the seating can be arranged in various layouts.
