One lane of Rockingham Street between West Street and Division Street will form a new southbound bus lane, restricted for use by general traffic. The other lane will remain in use for northbound-only general traffic.

The section of Rockingham Street between Division Street and Wellington Street will be the location of a new high-quality bus hub for southbound services, tied into the improved walking routes and green public spaces. General traffic will be able to travel each direction between Division Street and Devonshire Lane, and then southbound only thereafter to Wellington Street.

Under these proposals, Trafalgar Street and Westfield Terrace will return to their pre-Covid-19 function. This means that Westfield Terrace will return to one-way southbound between West Street and Division Street. Trafalgar Street will be two-way between Division Street and Milton Street, and the one-way restriction to southbound only at the junction with Charter Row will remain in place.
