

What happens next?

We have now completed our review of Ealing Council.

The recommendations must now be approved by Parliament. A draft order - the legal document which brings into force our recommendations - will be laid in Parliament.

Subject to parliamentary scrutiny, the new electoral arrangements will come into force at the local elections in May 2022.

Our recommendations:

The table lists all the wards we are proposing as part of our final recommendations along with the number of voters in each ward. The table also shows the electoral variances for each of the proposed ward, which tells you how we have delivered electoral equality. Finally, the table includes electorate projections for 2024, so you can see the impact of the recommendations for the future.

Who we are:

- The Local Government Boundary Commission for England is an independent body set up by Parliament.
- We are not part of government or any political party.
- We are accountable to Parliament through a committee of MPs chaired by the Speaker of the House of Commons.
- Our main role is to carry out electoral reviews of local authorities throughout England.

Why Ealing?

- Ealing currently has high levels of electoral inequality: some councillors represent many more- or many fewer voters than others
- Therefore the value of your vote, in Ealing council elections, varies depending on where you live in the Ealing.
- We are seeking to improve levels of electoral equality for local voters

Electoral review:

- An electoral review examines and proposes new electoral arrangements for a local authority, including:
- The total number of councillors representing the council's voters ('council size').
  - The names, number and boundaries of wards or electoral divisions.
  - The number of councillors for each ward or division.

Our proposals:

- Ealing Council currently has 69 councillors. Based on the evidence we received, we recommend that 70 councillors should serve the council in the future.
- We believe our final recommendations meet our statutory criteria to:
  - (1) Deliver electoral equality for voters.
  - (2) Reflect community interests and identities.
  - (3) Promote effective and convenient local government.

Summary of our recommendations

We have considered all the submissions we received during our consultation on our draft recommendations.

The final recommendations propose that Ealing Council should have 70 councillors. This is one more than the current number of councillors.

Those councillors should represent 22 three-councillor wards and 2 two-councillor wards across the council. Ealing should have 24 wards, one more than there is now.

The boundaries of all wards should change, none will stay the same.

An outline of the proposals is shown in the map to the right. A detailed report on the recommendations and interactive mapping is available on our website at: www.lgbce.org.uk.
