I cannot see any reason for breaking off such a small part of Arlington parish (some 12 homes) and attaching that area to a very large parish. If the aim is to have each parish representing roughly the same number of people this is working exactly against this. This is surely the reason for adjusting boundaries is it not. Please tell me if I am wrong in this because at the moment the only other reason would be to facilitate planning actions. Is this the purpose of boundary changes? Please let me know. Sincerely Graham Wood
