I maintain my views that Botley within the Borough of Eastleigh should remain as is....or In Eastleigh I feel reducing each ward down to ONE Councillor ONLY would be efficient, and give significant cost savings to the Council Tax Payer, and at a time of cuts this would be a natural and acceptable one to make. Savings on allowances, Councillor expenses and election costs could save upto £4 million over 4 years. From current experience the workload to only ONE Councillor per ward would be acceptable and realistic. It would also help give a better political balance / representation. Also consideration should be given to Hampshire County Councils proposals that are more far reaching and even more cost effective by having one unitary authority. Hampshire Council, with the abolition of district Councils such as Eastleigh, giving very significant cost savings and reduced council tax. Again I feel ONE ward Councillor per Parish / Area is more than enough, with Parish Councils taking on a great level of responsibility and accountability for a ZERO charge from allowances.
