

The background of the slide is a close-up photograph of an open Bible. The text on the pages is slightly blurred, but some words like "Son of God", "disciples", "Lamb of God", and "Jesus" are visible. A solid blue rectangular box is centered over the text, containing the main title in white, bold, sans-serif font.

A Bible Teaching Day for Women

Teaching the Epistles

13th June 2020

at St Mary's Church Basingstoke

10am—4pm

TEACHING THE EPISTLES

The Epistles are real letters and each of them were written with a particular purpose to Christians in a particular context. To understand how they apply to us today we need to first understand what they meant for their original recipients. So what tools do we need to understand them and how can we avoid misapplying them?

Join us for a day of interactive learning as we look together at the book of Titus and discover some of the tools we need to handle this Biblical genre well.

St Mary's Church, Basingstoke are kindly hosting the day, which will be led by Carrie Sandom, Director of Women's Ministry at the Proclamation Trust and tutor at the Cornhill Training Course in London. The teaching day is open to women who teach the Bible in any context - whether in large groups, small groups or one to one—or who have yet to take the plunge and would like to learn how.

Saturday 13th June

St Mary's Church, Goat Lane, Basingstoke RG21 7PZ

10am - 4pm

£10 (for coffee/tea and handouts but please bring your own lunch)

To register please go to www.eventbrite.com and search for Teaching the Epistles