

Churches and agencies are working with the Anglican Alliance to support the church in South Sudan after conflict has left more than 400,000 people displaced and killed up to 10,000. The local church is providing practical support to the thousands across the country who have been left without food, water or shelter.

Anglicans respond to crisis in South Sudan

Churches and agencies are working with the Anglican Alliance to support the church in South Sudan after conflict has left more than 400,000 people displaced and killed up to 10,000. The local church is providing practical support to the thousands across the country who have been left without food, water or shelter.

read more

Latest news

16 Jan 2014

Advocacy reaches world leaders

The voices of Anglicans in South Sudan have reached international governments as the Church speaks out for peace and reconciliation.

16 Jan 2014

Archbishop Albert Chama welcomes new directors

Archbishop Albert Chama looks forward to a new chapter of the Alliance and welcomes Revd Andy Bowerman and Revd Rachel Carnegie to their new roles.

16 Jan 2014

Alliance appeal brings support for Bangladesh garment workers

16 Jan 2014

Bishop Mauricio Andrade speaks at global conference for land rights

